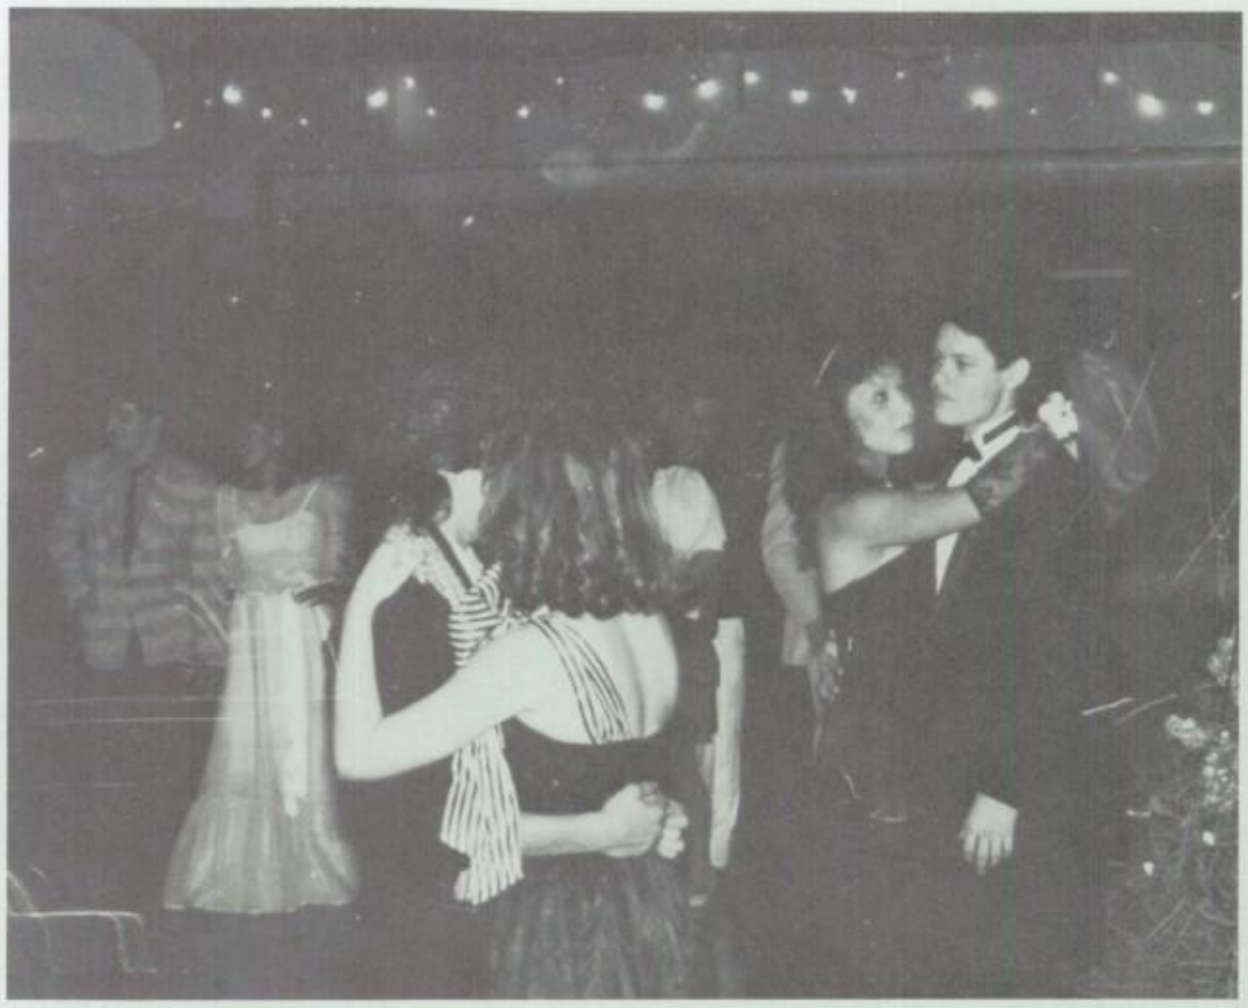
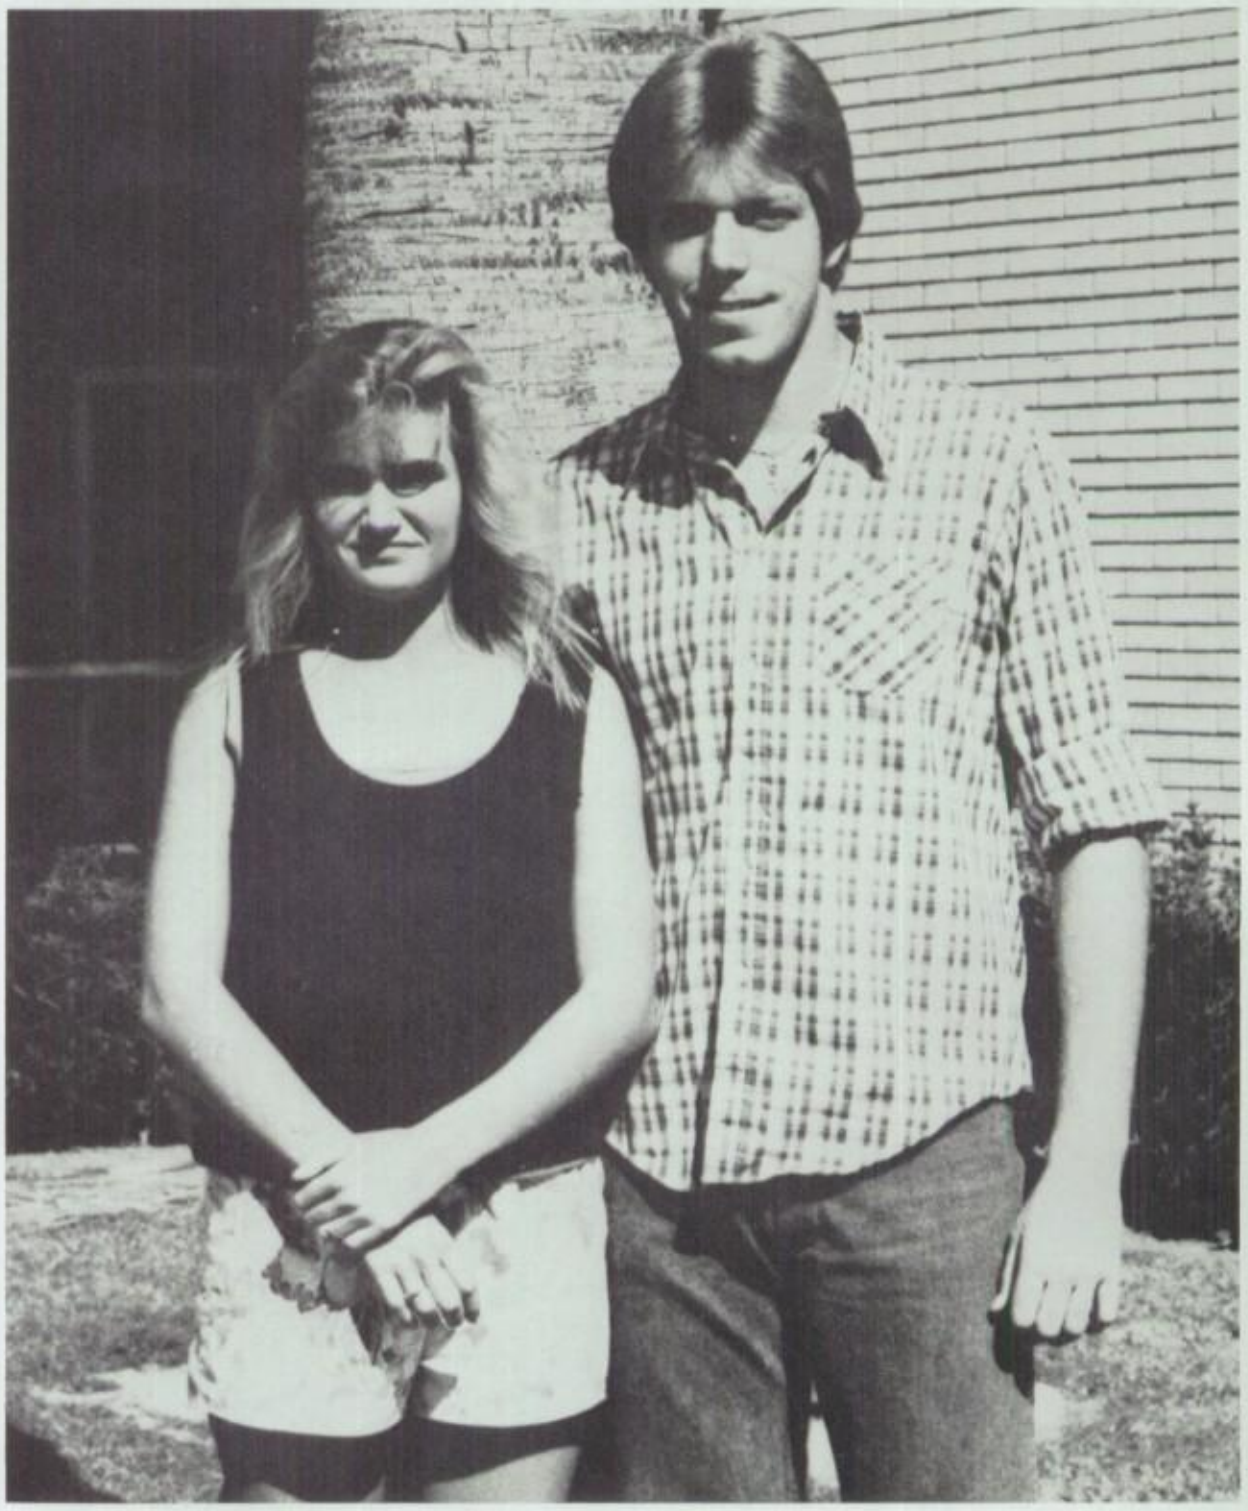
Special feelings and Christmas spirits filled the hearts of most couples.



Honoring a long standing tradition, Christmas royalty Eric Kissel and Keri Morrison lead the next dance.

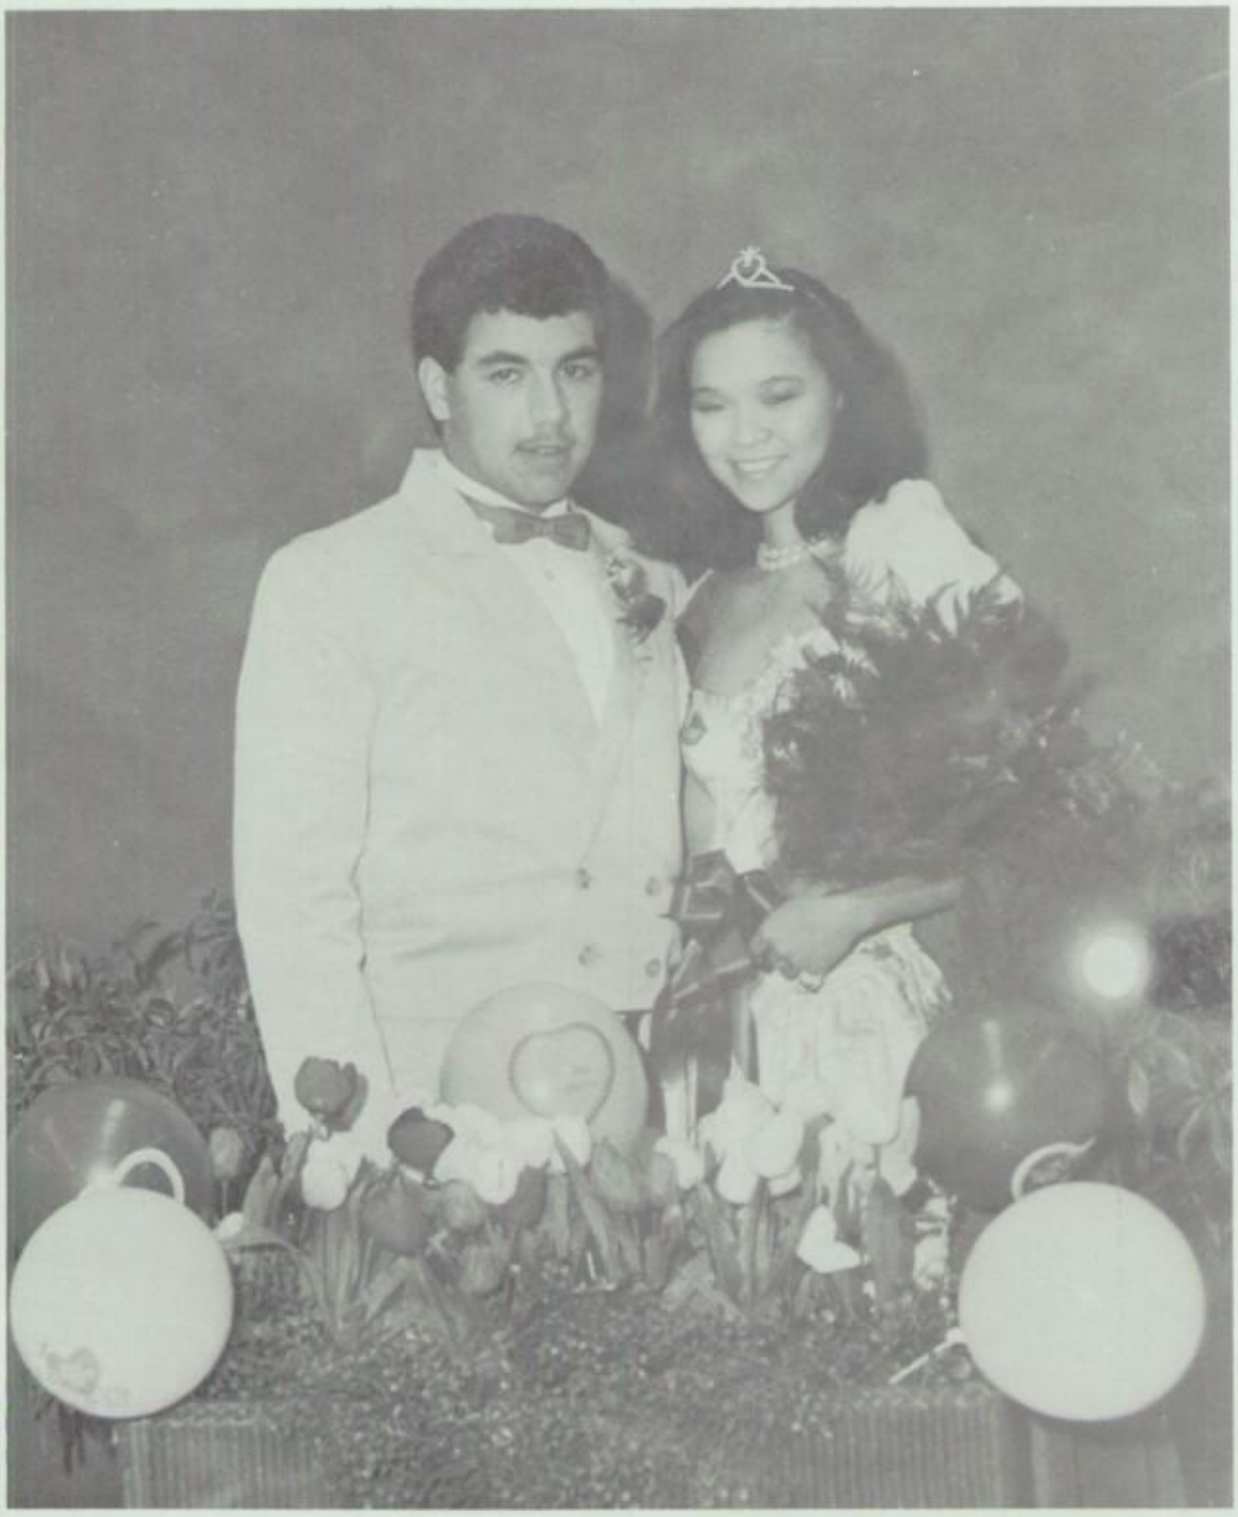


CHRISTMAS FORMAL BROUGHT EVERLASTING MEMORIES

A desert Christmas became reality for Eric Kissel and Keri Morrison as they were proclaimed royalty of the Christmas Formal Dance.

Between the hours of 8:00 and 11:00 p.m., many couples were shuffing in and out of the gym. Dancing, mingling, and coversing with friends seemed to be the main event. Couples, who wished to have their picture taken, were found in line patiently waiting in the hall. The main attraction was the unusual use of tumble weeds for the construction of a desert type Christmas tree.

The dance was a success, but the night wasn't over. Couples would see movies or get a late dinner before the night would come to an end.



Love and Romance Highlighted at Sweetheart Dance

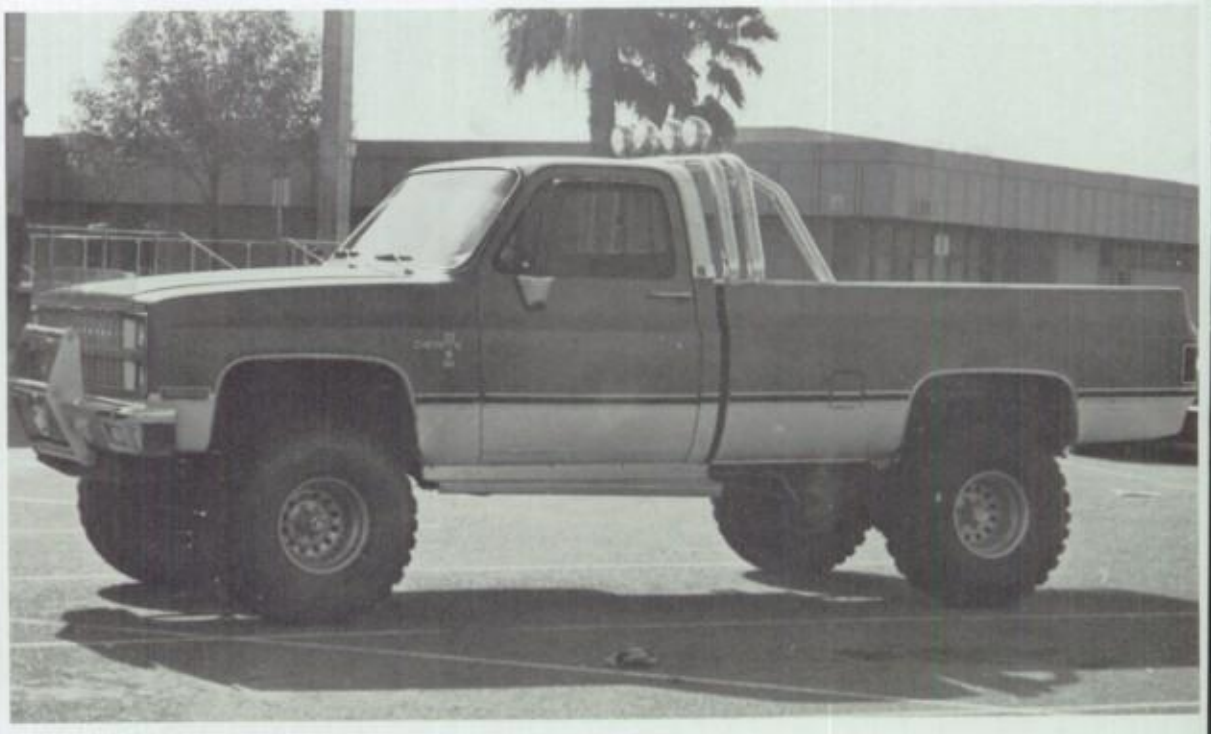
A valentine fountain was the center at attraction at the Sweetheart Dance. Student Government spent much time in the preparation of both the Christmas and the Sweetheart Dance. A professional photographer was located in the cafeteria for couples who wanted to charish those memories in future years.

Charlotte Tang and Phillippi Sparks were named Sweetheart and Beau. Although Sparks was not present at the dance, first runner-up Richard LaVeer filled Phillippi's place as Beau.

Black Angus, Red Lobster, or Garcis's were the more popular restaurants that couples ate at before or after the dances. As the night came to a close couples were located at midnight movies, cruising Central, or at one of many popular "hangouts". But in the end, the evening was over and done, although the memories will live on!

Sweetheart Charlotte Tang and Beau Richard La-Veer enjoy leading the next dance.

The majority of the couples favored the slow dances over the fast.



UPPERCLASSMEN CATCH TRANSPORTATION FEVER

Having transportation is one major concern in a student's life. Owning a form of transportation is an investment and a large responsibility. Insurance payments, vehicle payments, registration, and licence fees are good examples of what a student has to invest a majority of his/her income on. Not to mention, the responsibility of tune-ups, oil changes, tires, and keeping the tank full. All of these require a lot of time and money. A vehicle is a student's pride and joy at this time of his/her life.

A large line of cars, trucks, motorcycles, and scooters can be found on campus between 7:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. each school day. American cars range from Chevys, Fords, Chryslers, American Motors, and General Motors. As for foreign cars, Nissan-Datson, Isuzu, Honda, Toyoto, Volkswagons, and Volvos were the most common. Motorcycles were among the Honda, Kawasaki, Yamaha, and Harley-Davison companies.

LIFE ON CAMPUS

Relaxing on grassed areas and benches, visiting friends, participating in school sports, joining various clubs, eating lunch, entering in lunch time activities, sitting in classrooms, and spacing out were recognized to be a few of the activities that several students chose to do during or after school hours. Several students chose to "ditch" their classes because of various reasons and soon found themselves without a class to ditch. Those who decided to stick with school found that campus life consists of two semesters. Since the days went by so fast, several students were forced to get their act together to make up work and tardies, and study to pass exams.

In addition to the classroom, there were activities to become involved in for all types of people. Mental activities to participate in involved dungeons and dragons club, chess club, and the computer club. Those more physical joined activities like the ski club, bike club, or the hiking club.

For some students who could be seen studying in various areas, campus life was academics. Taking off lunch hours, breaking a date to go to the movies with a friend, and quiting an extracurricular activity allowed these students more time for school work.

LIFE AFTER SCHOOL

Walking out of school at 2:40, the memories of the day seemed to fade as once crowded hallways became empty. To some students after school meant going home and relaxing from a hard day. For others it was waiting around for friends, for that little rendevous. However the school day was extended for most because of homework and extracurricular activities. These students could be seen carrying books and/or assorted paraphernalia.

Many of Maryvale's students were found waiting for rides.

Kathy Watson walks home with an armful of books.

LUNCHTIME ACTIVITIES PROMOTED SPIRIT

Music, games, fun, school spirit; that's what the new closed campus lunch hour was all about. Since the campus was closed, Student Government provided entertainment to keep the students busy. Activities such as "Do You Like Your Neighbor?", "Musical Chairs", "The Banana Race", "Make Me Laugh", and "Sitting Volleyball" were some of the events enjoyed by both the participants and the spectators. Besides games, a D.J. was provided every Wednesday of the month with a variety of music ranging from pop to rock. A military band was also brought in to entertain the students. Lunchtime was not boring if you got involved in what was provided.

"Musical Chairs" was one of Mike Stults favorite activities.

Blanca Esquer joined two friends in trying to succeed across the "Relay Legged Race."

DANCE CONCERT EXHILARATES!!!

Dance has always been a fun, new, and exciting experience for many girls. However, three males, Bryon Obenour, Jarrod McGuire, and Charles Campbell entered to make it an exceptional year for the dance classes. All students could enjoy dance by attending concerts, both beginning and advanced.

In their first two dance concerts of the year, the advanced dancers came out like fire and showed off their ability as dancers to make the show exhilarating and fashionable. In all, the students have had a fantastic time learning, experiencing, in choreographing, and sharing a relationship with other students that will last a lifetime!

Dance is mind and body working together to express a feeling.

Different sizes and shapes filled the stage when the dancers performed. The color coordination and various styles caught your eye at a glimpse.

Teresa Cole consumed the stage with her graceful dancing ability.

After their excellent performances, the advanced dancers costumes flashed when they came out for their final bow.

TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS

Blisters, bruises, skinned knees, sprained muscles, and broken bones sound like too much pain for one person to go through. Several athletic students didn't mind the pain, as long as they had a challenging match. Approximately 636 Maryvale students participated in school sports while between 500 to 600 cheered them on.

A few more drops of sweat, several extra hours of practice, and a little more concentration prepared Maryvale for a more enthusiastic and victorious school year.

M.C. Patricia Torsiello greeted former royalty Wayne Young and Tamera Hatfield who were brought in by helicopter to present their positions to the new king and queen.

HELICOPTER: A SURPRISE

A new way of bringing in the jewels was demonstrated at halftime. The crowd was amazed at the sight of a helicopter landing on the football field. Former king and queen Wayne Young and Tamera Hatfield were brought in by the helicopter to present the crown, tiara, and robe to the new king and queen. The winners were Undra Viverette and Jenny Tany. Undra Viverette was unable to accept the crown in person because he was playing in the game, so Dennis Sandford was brought in to represent him.

This couple was still happy with the outcome of the evening.

Emotions were high as the new homecoming royalty was being announced.

Homecoming royalty Jenny Tang and Undra Viverette were happy to take time out for a royal picture.

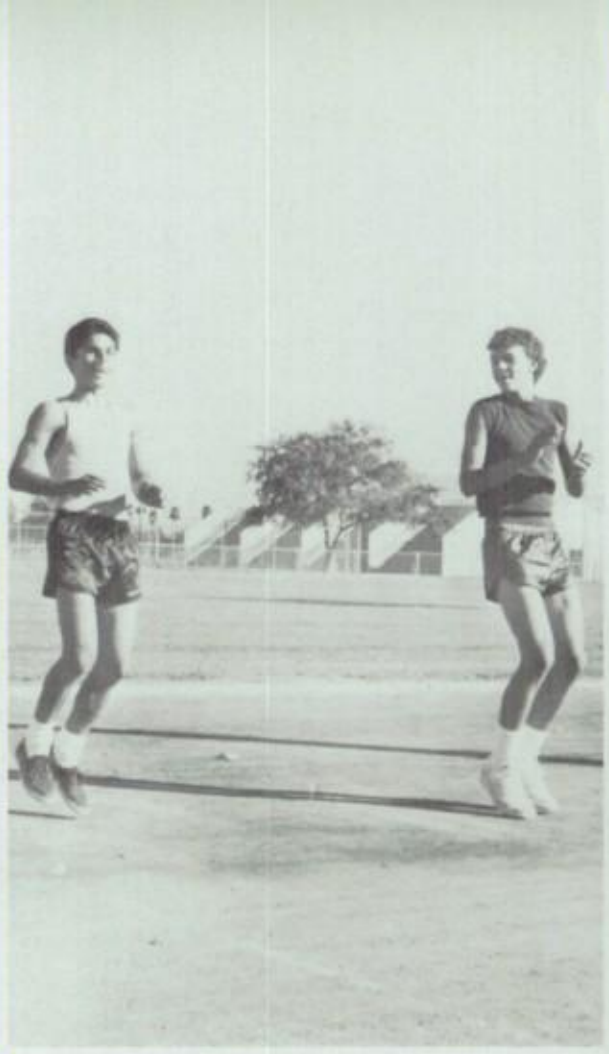
A celebration was called for after the victorious homecoming game, so many people released their energy by dancing.

Excited at having been chosen as the new royalty, Jenny Tang and Dennis Sandford (standing in for Undra Viverette) proceeded under the bridge made by R.O.T.C. rifles to their waiting car.

Male poms practiced hard to get their routine together.

WHAT IS POWDER PUFF?

When the annual homecoming parade concluded, everyone was invited to join the excitement of a powder puff game. For those of you who have never heard of a powder puff game, it's a girl's flag football game. Upper and lower class teams compete against each other while male "poms" cheer the teams on. The reversal of roles provided entertainment for all those who decided to join the event.



Eric Quiros, John Schreiber, Steve Garcia, and Teddy Smythe enjoyed being part of the male pom line as they were the center of attention at the "Powder Puff" game.

Eddy Moore, Julie Helton, Lori Miller, and Terry Grady were anxious for the game to begin.

Eric Quiros and Teddy Smythe were overwhelmed with the excitement of the game.

The girls who participated in the powderpuff game proved they could play as rough as the guys.

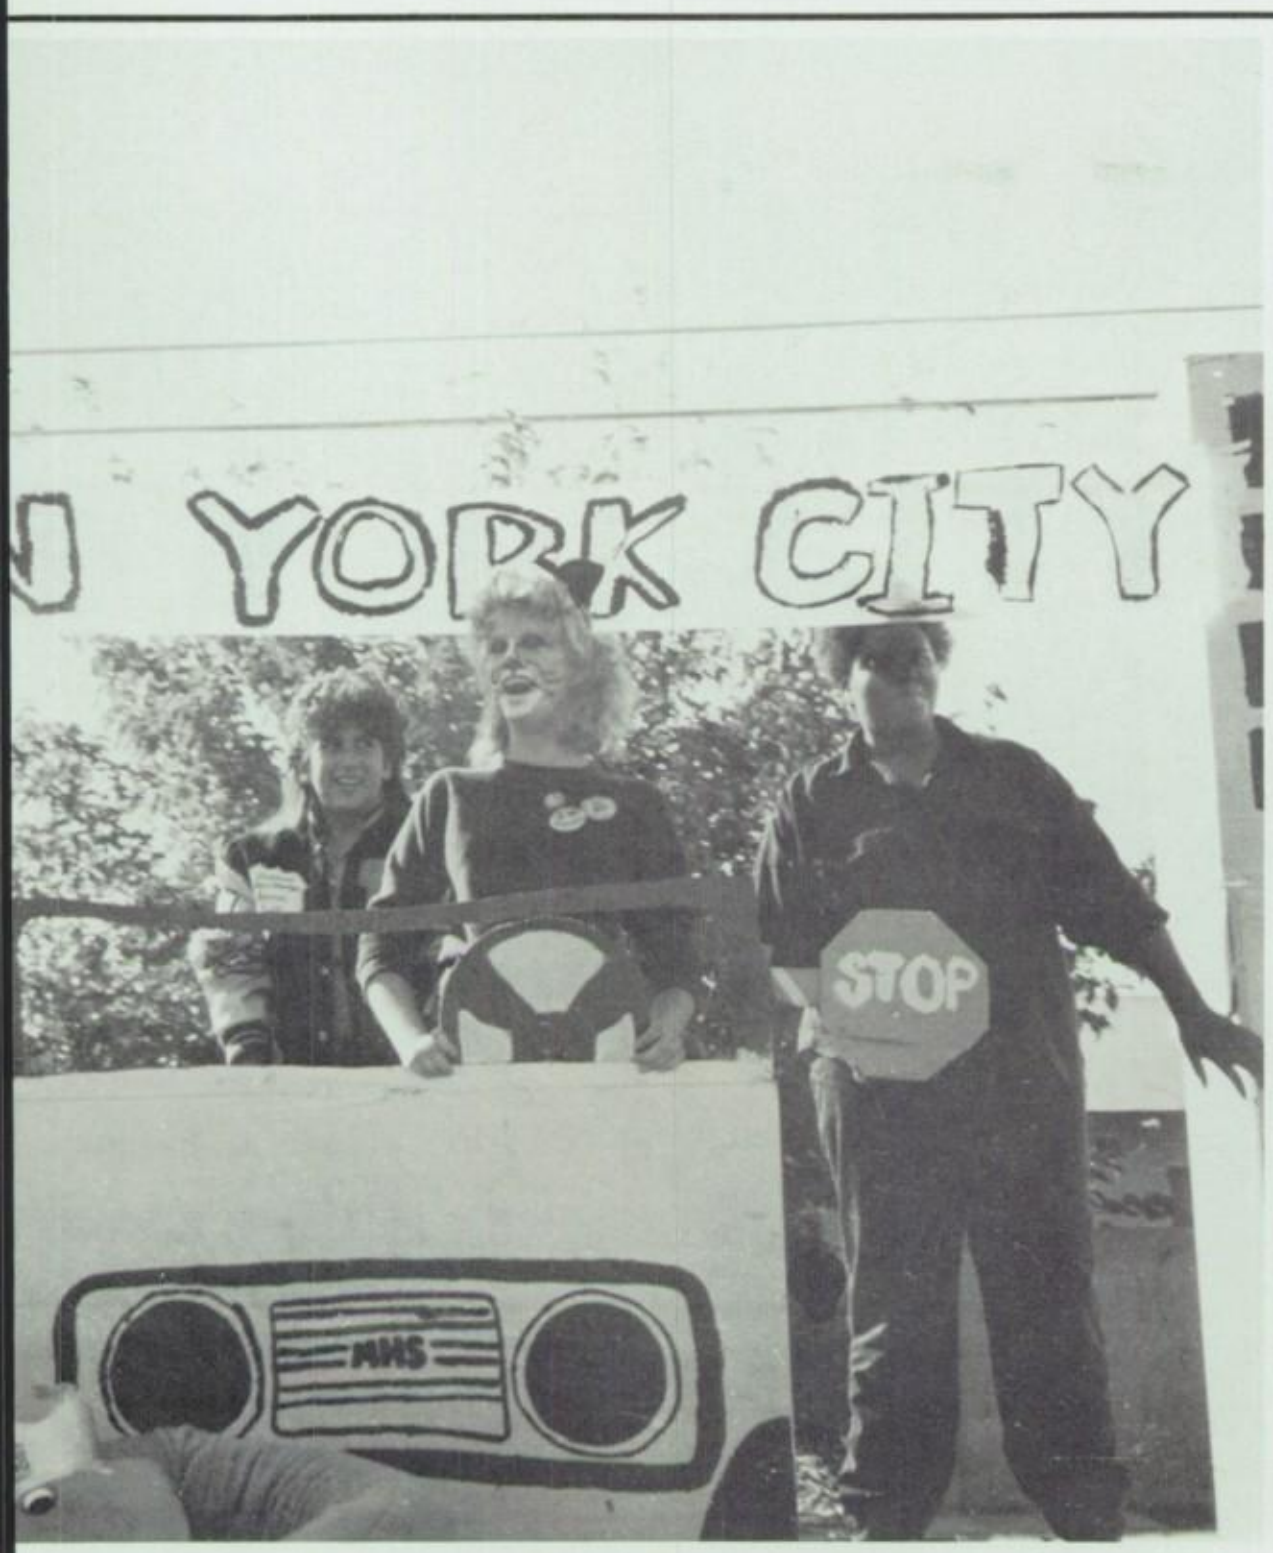
ON WITH THE PARADE

Even though there has been a problem with floats being vandalized, M.H.S. still holds true to the tradition of a homecoming parade. All classes were accounted for at the time of the parade, but unfortunately the Sophomore float did not make it to the game.

Students showed their spirit by riding on the float of their class. Band, J.R.O.T.C., football players, flags, pom, and cheer marched along with the floats down 59th Avenue.

Band members marched down 59th Avenue in uniform motion during the parade after many hours of practice.

Seniors, knowing the theme to be "City Life", chose to go for East L.A.



Tina Marie Caballero enjoyed being "Miss New York" as the other sophomores had a fun time on the float.

The class of "89" worked hard on their float as sisters Krendra and Kelci Avens were part of the main attraction.

Albert Escobedo volunteered to drive his truck for the homecoming parade, for some students prefered to ride.

Penny Turner, Tammy Diamond, Teresa Delgado, and Gina Lopez cheered the junior class as their float won second place.

CREATIVE STUDENTS DRESS UP

Spirit week gave everyone a chance to show how creative they could be. Nerd day started off the week. Everything from high-water, plaid pants worn with a floral print shirt to tennis shoes worn with a dull skirt and taped glasses were displayed. Next came T.V. dress-up day. The most popular show was Miami Vice. The third theme was M.A.S.H. day. Many Rambo clones were to be seen, camouflaged faces and all. Costume day fell on Halloween so a variety of costumes were found. To end the week black and gold day was appropriate.

Mary Helen Hurtado expressed herself on Halloween.

Mary Mickle magically became Minnie Mouse on costume day.

Talk, talk, talk; this is what kept students busy while they waited in the lunch line.

This little Indian enjoyed dressing up on Halloween.

Nerd Day was enjoyed by Carol Vasquez, La-Tanya Sullivan, Bryon Obenour, Mary Chong, Benny Espejo, Eric Quiros, and Tina Lee, but they had to be censored for unknown reasons.

Displaying their costumes for us on "Dress Up Day", Peter Alejandro, Annette Ramos, Evelyn Clark, and Mary Mickle, showed their true spirit.

"Dress Up Day" caused a few students to give an eyecatching glance at participants.

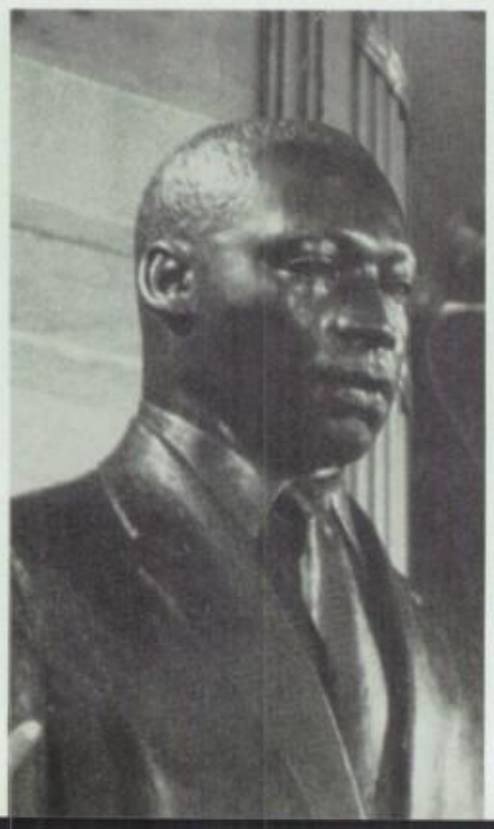
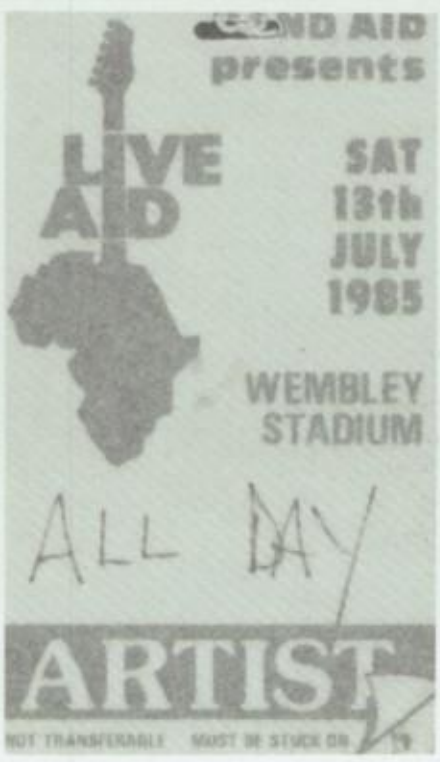
THE YEAR IN REVIEW

This year has brought about many new things and changes in the world. New trends were set everywhere, especially in the music industry. Bruce Springsteen had phenominal success with his album "Born in the U.S.A." which sold more than 10 million copies. Musicians joined together to help the hungry in Africa with a super concert called "Live Aid". "Farm Aid" followed with musicians joining to raise money for American farmers. William "The Refridgerator" Perry, a player for the Chicago Bears received almost overnight fame. The 300-plus pound player obtained his nickname by being virtually unstoppable on the field. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday was named a national holiday for his efforts in stopping racial discrimination. All together, it has been a good year with new things happening throughout the world.





The J.R.O.T.C. drill team perform during a pep assembly.

OVER THE YEARS

The year was filled with events which are done every year for tradition's sake. Everything from going back to school, back to school night, registration, school pictures, and freshmen orientation. Many activities backed up Maryvale's spirit with such things as pep rally assemblies, Black and Gold Day, R.O.T.C. flag raising, dances, lunchtime activities, after school activities, Almost Anything Goes, home coming, to things that anyone would like such as Spring Break, flour babies, senior fling, and of course, Christmas. Things were even done that saved lives such as the blood drive. All of these things made a joyful, useful, and fun year for everyone.

Everyone participated in the lunchtime activities.

The J.R.O.T.C.'s Wednesday flag raising ceremony was a well kept tradition at Maryvale.

Students participate in the "traditional" clock making in wood shop.

THE JOB THAT KEEPS EVERYTHING GOING

I.M.C. assistants have many different duties depending on where they are assigned. Students can either be found working in the library or the A.V. room. Library assistants check in students, re-shelf books, and help students check out books. A.V. assistants work the close-circuit room, run xerox, and deliver and pick up equipment. These students help keep the I.M.C. running smoothly every year.

Checking for his daily assignment, Jason Lyle finds out what he has to pick up or deliver.

WHAT IS CLOSE UP?

As a close up participant, you'll take part in daily study visits to such places as the House of Representatives and the Senate, the Capitol, the Supreme Court, the Library of Congress, and various federal agencies. During scheduled independent activity time, you'll have additional opportunities to visit congressional offices and sit in on governmental hearings. As you observe the business of government taking place, the things you've read about in textbooks and newspaper will spring to life. You'll begin to see government as an ongoing process in which you can play a part.

TRIBES SHARE HERITAGE

The Native American Club is composed of students from seventeen different tribes. Members of the club share the cultural heritage of these tribes. The club activities included fund raisers, such as fry bread sales. Money from the fund raisers was used for activities such as dinners, movies and camping trips to various reservations. Non-Indians are welcome to participate in the club.

CHESS . . . A GROWING ACHIEVEMENT

Competitive Chess has a strong tradition at Maryvale, this tradition includes largely of sophomores and juniors. Despite the loss of Varsity players in last years club, the new young team has sustained an even record in this years competition. At first board, Mike Macarle, the second sophomore in the school's history to play first board, has 3-3-0 record, an outstanding performance for a young player. They had a really special year.

ACADEMIC DECATHLON PUT BRAIN POWER TO WORK

The spirit of competition was extended this year at Maryvale with the creation of an Academic Decathlon team, which provided stimulating competition for Maryvale. Students competed in three divisions (Varsity, Scholastic, and Honors) based on their grade point averages. Each division, or team, consisted of two members plus one alternate, and each school had its own coach. The competition was divided into ten events covering everything from required courses to fine arts and Super Quiz. The purpose of the Decathlon was to emphasize the academic abilities of the participants. There were no real losers, just a chance to broaden their horizens and for students to better themselves academically. The Decathlon was a great way to put some of the great Maryvale spirit and brain power to work.

SNOW PROVIDED ENTERTAINMENT

The Ski Club not only had a good time skiing down the slopes of Sunrise, Purgatory, and Telluride, but also had fun building snowmen and having snowball fights. The first trip of the season was to Sunrise on Dec. 14th and 21st. This was the first trip ever to be split into two days. Maryvale was able to rent skiis and buy other equiptment (if needed) from Sunset Sports Center. The Purgatory Trip lasted two days and one night. The Telluride trip was three days and two nights. Time was spent in motels and on the slopes. For most of Maryvale skiiers the year was filled with sun, fun, snow, cold, and good times.

CHEERS DO THEIR BEST FOR M.H.S.

The Maryvale cheer line started the year before most of us even thought about shopping for clothes. They went to a cheer-leading camp over the summer and learned new cheers and chants. In order to buy new uniforms, the cheers sold pom poms, megaphones, buttons, and candy throughout the year. For one basketball game, the cheers and poms switched positions! The cheers danced and the poms cheered. Whatever the case was, the cheer-leaders filled our thoughts with excitement and spirit!

Senior, Tammy Garmon shined a dazzling smile while giving three cheers for M.H.S.

IN THE RUNNING

The year was started off with a boom at the Parker Invitational Volleyball tournament with the Special Olympic team taking a well deserved second place. The team qualified to go to Tucson for the State Bowling Tournament. There they finished with an outstanding third place. Other activities filled the year like bowling, basketball, softball, and of course the Winter Olympics in Flagstaff. Maryvale spirit was backed to the fullest.

J.R.O.T.C. . . . DOES IT AGAIN!

Maryvale Junior Reserves Officers' Training Corp's 6*th* Battalion had been very busy. Many cadets participated in a trip to Pine Elementary School, where they performed a military ceremony. All M.H.S. cadets went to Papago Park for a rappelling exercise. The cadets had a chance to rappel off Papago Butte. The rifle team was also busy. They attended a match involving all other teams in the Phoenix Union High School District. They also traveled to El Paso, Texas for a match with 30 other southwestern schools. Next in line was the drill team. They performed in the Fiesta Bowl Parade. Last but not least, the color guard appeared in a state wide competition and performed at the State Capital on Pearl Harbor Day. This has been an overall "great year" for the Maryvale J.R.O.T.C.

A CHANCE TO SEE ARIZONA PROVIDED

The Earth Science Club had a lot of fun this year. The group went on hikes and camping trips to varous places around the state.

"We're a camping, hiking, exploring club that gives students a chance to really see Arizona," said Dr. Gayle Jarvis, sponsor. Dr. Jarvis stressed that the main point of the club was to study things that students might not normally get a chance to see. "In science classes you see these things in films but this way you actually get to see what you are studying," commented Dr. Jarvis. The first trip members took was on October 5th, at Beaver Creek. Next they went to the Chiricahua National Monument on November 9th. "On most of these trips the kids get what they want out of them. I don't expect a prerequisite for them to go on the trips because I think this club should be for interest with no requirements to drive students away," commented Dr. Jarvis. Other trips were to Peppersauce Caves, Aravaipa Canyon, Payson Caves and Havasupai.

S.A.D.D. HELPS FIND SOLUTIONS

According to the S.A.D.D. constitution, Students Against Driving Drunk is a club designed to teach students the pitfalls of drinking and driving. To learn more about the organization and to help solve the problem, members from S.A.D.D. attended a Youth Town Hall session where members from various organizations got together to discuss solutions to the problems. The members were split up into seperate groups. They discussed ways to prevent drunk driving accidents. A state representative was on hand to take their ideas back to the state government in order to find a solution to the problem.

The bad effects of drinking and driving are that a person could be involved in a major accident in which he could be killed, paralyzed, or severely injured. "Students should take the responsibility to stop and think before they drink and drive because the consequences can be tragic," said Patricia Torsiello, club president.

FOOTBALL TEAM HAS EXCEPTIONAL SEASON!!

The pep at football games was outrageous! As Maryvale made more points, M.H.S. fans became louder and louder! With a fantastic ending score of eight wonderful wins, two losses, and one terrible tie, the football team improved greatly. The defensive players played harder, faster, and better than ever. After the victorious win over Trevor Browne High School, everyone ran onto the field and congratulated the Maryvale football team. When asked about the football game against Trevor, students said, "After six years it's about time we beat them!!"

Following a long hard play, David Hill found a glass of water very relaxing.

The students in cross country practiced for two hours afterschoo everyday, getting in shape for thei runs. The average run for boys wa three miles and for girls two miles Unlike any other sport, cross coun try is very individualized. J.V. WORKS HARD TO BECOME WINNING TEAM

The J.V. Volleyball team proved that they were serious about winning and being a good team. "With two and a half hours of practice everyday after school we had hoped to become even better," commented Sophomore Michelle Fogel.

One of the easier games won was against Gilbert. "Gilbert was an easy win," said Sophomore Shelly Grimm, who was one of J.V.'s most improved players this year. M.H.S. took Gilbert with a win of 15-18/15-5. The team's season record was 13 wins and 3 losses.

VARSITY BEGINS SEASON WITH EASY WIN

"We were out there for two reasons; to win and to have fun," explained Junior Patty Fimbres when speaking of the M.H.S. Volleyball team. The first game was taken at Gilbert with a win. Tamera Hatfield, co-captain for Varsity stated that "after losing to Camelback, the team decided not to let another team defeat us." Coach Irvine said the team had a lot of spirit and they were determined not to lose; just to be winners. According to the coaches, Varsity's most improved player was Chris Vasques. The team's overall record was 20 wins and 5 losses.

GOLF HAS GOOD YEAR

The Maryvale Golf Team rests after a tough game.

A BUILDING YEAR FOR BADMINTON

Remember when you were young, and it was see the birdie? Well now it's hit the birdie, but only after many hours of practice in a friend's or your own backyard. Maybe you didn't have any practice at all, just a growing curiousity for the game (and possibly hopes of a varsity letter here and there).

You heard about the tryouts on the announcements or maybe from a friend and decided to tryout. Those few days of practicing long hours were murder! As D-day approached and you got better and better, then the magic moment was then ... Hurray! You made it!

Now what? What did the future hold for you? Since badminton isn't an extremely "popular" sport, but it's getting there, you couldn't dream of television, mega-bucks, or Wimbledon. Well there was still lots of practice because the "good" can always get better! The coach, of course, didn't want your head swelling too much over making varsity so it was work, work, work, and between all of the practices there were always games.

Although it wasn't a terrific year for the team they still gave it their best try. "It was a building year for the team." said Coach Holguin. The girls won two of their games, with scores of 9-0 over Camelback, and 6-3 defeating Central, but they are still practicing. The next year will bring a new year for the Girls' Varsity Badminton team to take on new heights.

Newspaper staffer, Anna Deleon shows her excitement for the class by waiting by the door for class to end.

Science has its "stringy" qualities as shown by Mr. Messner and his class.

Yearbook Staff, An In And Out Situation

Sheri Knott, the editor that had a censored picture on her desk, was always nagging us to get work done. Her staffers always tried to run her down at her desk. She finally escaped and volunteered to go to the rubber room. Donna Durham, because this was her first year in high school, she became confused about which way to go and some how ended up in the pub. room. She's been here ever since, and for some strange reason plans on returning next year. Lori Miller, this was Lori's first year at Maryvale and so to meet new people she joined up for yearbook. Little did she know she would end up meeting a class full of hermits. JoEllen Garcia, she was convinced to join the staff by Sami Armstrong. Sami needed someone to hlep keep her going. Anna Deleon, having nothing better to do with her life decided to join pub. In doing this, she learned to print pics. Now all she wants to do is print pics of some Brophy basketball player named Jim. Darren Chavez, we couldn't quite understand her, but she was always saying chants. One of them was something about going around the world in 80 days. Julie Goddard, known for her outrageous clothing and can of hair spray, could be seen walking around in her "Betty Boop" T-shirt.

The in-crowd consisted of only one new staffer. Chris Tafoya, this brave boy proceeded to become the object of the editor's abuse. This did not phase him, he was still able to produce pictures and pages.

Mary Reed, a.k.a. the super advisor was seen running about frantically not knowing what to do next. The strain of commuting between two schools caused her to take all the pub. funds and fly to Hawaii.

The yearbook staff was an in and out situation. After Susie Woods retired from selling candy and being editor she passed the job to Sheri Knott.

The out-crowd consisted of msny staffers. Those included were: Toby Cohea, the one who started out slow, but improved with each passing day. Mrs. Pamela (Shelton) Debarge, she graced us with her presence even though many didn't understand what she was doing. Joe Delgado, he was held back in our desperation but in the end we had to let him go. Brian Black, a newcomer from Paradise Valley, seemed to be afraid of Sheri so he got out by joining the newspaper staff. Babette Finley, she couldn't take the madness anymore, so like many other ex-staffers, was retired to the rubber room. Renee Moffatt, the super secretary/staffer received a better offer with higher pay and better working conditions at Apollo. She thought of turning the offer down, but quickly came to her senses.

The insane crowd consisted of those staffers who were brave enough to endure the strain of commiting themselves to the pub. room for a full year. These brave inmates were: Tim McMonigal, for two years all that was heard was silence, but one day it was discovered in the darkroom by some unexpecting soul that he can speak one word . . . "Yeh". Sami Armstrong, fellow staffers have come to the conclusion that Sami has been effected by her two consecutive years of pub. This suspicion was verified by her actions. She was always demonstrating the art of slam-dancing.

Donna Durham plans to have another exciting day in the wonderful world of a yearbook staffer.

"Riding a bike is fun," says Joe Delgado, as he takes a ride through the pub.

Super reporter Lanette Kirk attempts to teach Brian Black the do's and don'ts of "ace" reporting.

ABILITIES ARE DISCOVERED

Along with a "new look," the Maryvale Panther Tracks received a "new editor." Mary Mickle replaced the "irreplaceable" Chris Fiscus (or at least HE thought he was irreplaceable).

Each staffer was blessed with his/her own abilities or inabilities. Steve Ramsey, a.k.a. "Uncle Steve," had the ability to annoy everyone with his funny (?) impressions and jokes. Once in awhile he would come up with a real "knee slapper" though. Pam Shelton, our social butterfly, enjoyed the reporting; it's the writing she couldn't stand. She had the ability to avoid work. Tony Stevens, on the serious side of things, stuck pretty much to the movie reviews and had the ability to put his editor into a wild rage (which wasn't a pretty sight).

Donna Drennan, supported her editor all the way, whenever she knew which way Mary was going. Shawna Riley, the girl with all the questions and none of the answers, was a "loyal staffer", but a "chronic laugher." She had the ability to confuse everyone; even herself. Leon Keith, a staffer who worked a little, but wrote so much, kept the staff rolling in laughter with his satirical "off the wall" shots. Anna Deleon, a refugee from the Yearbook staff, added a little normality to the Newspaper staff; but not much! Lanette Kirk had the ability to organize, instruct, and keep the staff working; in other words, "her job." By the way, what was her job? James Bagwell, who was often quiet through all this insanity, seemed to be the only "normal" reporter. Little did we know he was merely "observing," ready to notify the men in the little white coats, in case things got too out of hand.

Then there's Evelyn Clark, who had the ability to work hard and "keep Mary happy" (remember, one MUST keep Mary happy!). We all knew her as the only staffer who could, "put up with the ol'tyrant." Eric Bowser, a late comer to the staff, was often responsible for the editor's "moods". He had the ability to confuse, torment, pester, hassle, irritate, enrage, anger, etc., certain staffers. That is when he decided to grace us with hs presence by attending class. We'll never forget Peter Alejandro, a.k.a., "The Jolly Green Giant," who bore a strong resemblance to Hitler in his ROTC uniform. Peter possessed the inability to accept Mary's editorial authority, yet often gained the upper hand. Brian Black kept everyone amused with his Pee Wee Herman imitations, which were sometimes thought to be the real thing. Adviser Mary Beth Reed, who has been greatly affected by two consecutive years of "unusual" editors and "strange" staffers, has taken a permanent "vacation." Where? We can only guess. Mary, at the tender age of sixteen, has retired to the "rubber room," where she is under the supervision of psychologist/part time yearbook editor, Sheri Knott. Maybe they'll let her out in a few months for good behavior.

Special thanks to Chris Tafoya, Joe Delgado, and Tim McMonigal for their great work in the darkroom.

Mary Beth Reed, Lanette Kirk, and Mary Mickle show their true personalities in between deadlines.

SENIOR GIRL BARBARA HERZOG

"Outstanding Senior Girl" for 1985-86 was Barbara Herzog. In each of her four years at Maryvale, Barbara was a member of Parnassus and was its treasurer for her junior year. She was on the District Superintendent's Honor Roll for her junior and senior years and on the school's honor roll each term. She competed on the Academic Decathlon team her senior year.

As a junior, Barbara attended the Los Alamos science field trip and was also chosen Girl's State. At the Arizona State University Science Fair her freshman year, she placed fourth, and she also attended A.S.V.'s Engineering Fair her sophomore year. She received Maryvale's highest honor, the #1 award, her senior year.

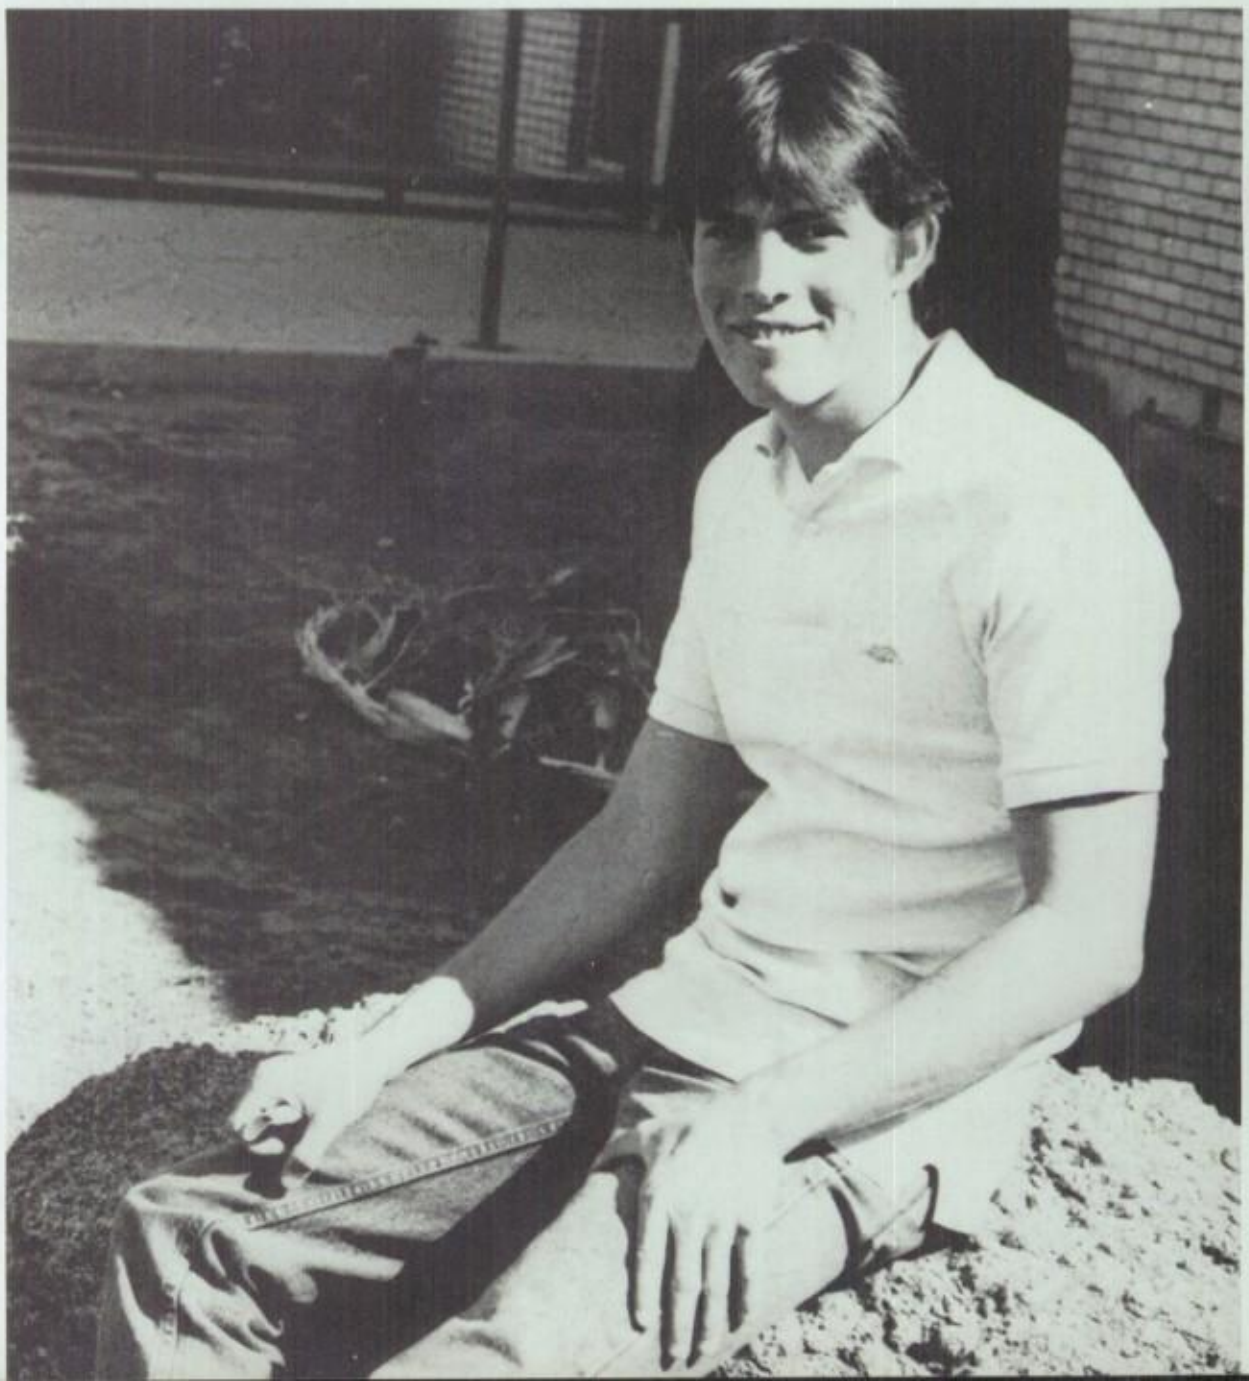
In addition to academics, Barbara was a member of Pantherettes for four years, serving as its vice president her senior year, and a Creative Writing Club member for one year. She has volunteered her services to Special Olympics and has walked in a Muscular Dystrophy Walk-a-Thon.

SENIOR BOY JEFF HARRIS

Jeff Harris received the honor of "Outstanding Senior Boy" for 1985-86. A member of Maryvale's Cross Country and Track teams his freshman, sophomore and senior years, Jeff earned a varsity letter in each of these sports, as well as one in academics. He was also a member of the school's honor roll.

In both his junior and senior years, Jeff was a member of the Model U.N. Club and served as its A.S.C. representative.

Jeff has done more than just academics. He has been a newspaper carrier, a courtesy clerk for a grocery store and a maintenance man at a local mall. He has also served as a volunteer for his church and at Maryvale Park.



STATERS SET THE PACE

Boys and Girls Staters go during the summer to create an imaginary state. Four male and female delegates are selected their junior year to participate and attend the session in early June. The creation of the state begins with the election the city officials, party officials, then the county and state officials. These members went to N.A.U. to create their state for a week. The highlight of the week is the election of the state governors.

Boys State - Tom Pettit, Peter Alejandro, Glen Ingebretson, William Watson.

Girls State - Donna Stansbury, Jenny Tang, Barbara Herzog, Patti Newberry.

Showing their great M.H.S. spirit at the first double pep assembly, the Maryvale cheerleaders once again arouse the crowd with their exciting mount to the cheer, "Two-bits".

Camera Ready?!? Perhaps, but not these particular members of the Varsity football team as they stop to show their Panther Pride!

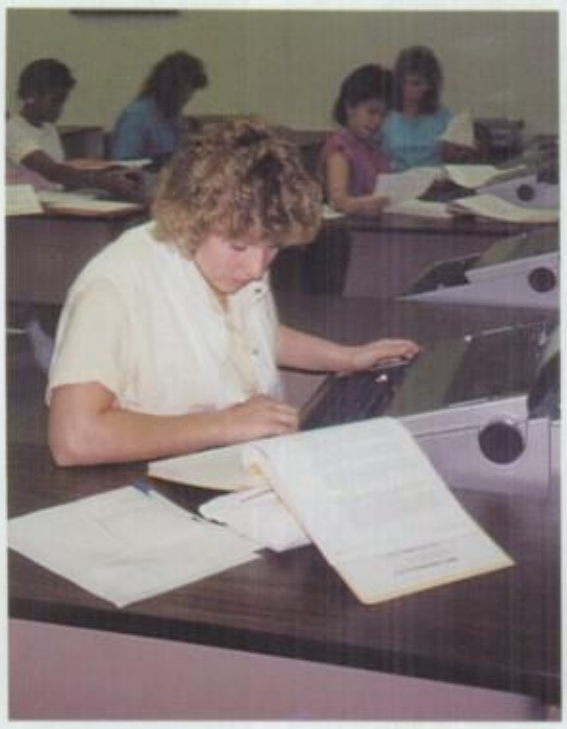
Paula Veach, a.k.a. the Panther Mascot, gives her exciting performance at the double pep assembly.

M.H.S.
SPIRIT

Spirit, fun, and enthusiasm prevailed at the pep assemblies. Students showed they could be rowdy, energenic, and still have pride in Maryvale. Pep assemblies re-entered the Maryvale School scene and were incorporated in the school day and afterschool before the big games. The students were encouraged to get involved with the various clubs, activities, and support the teams throughout the pep assembly. Students showed up in their black and gold attire on Fridays to prove their Panther spirit.

The Maryvale Panther Pride Band rehearses in hopes for a perfect performance; to be shown off at pep assemblies, football games, band day, and concerts!

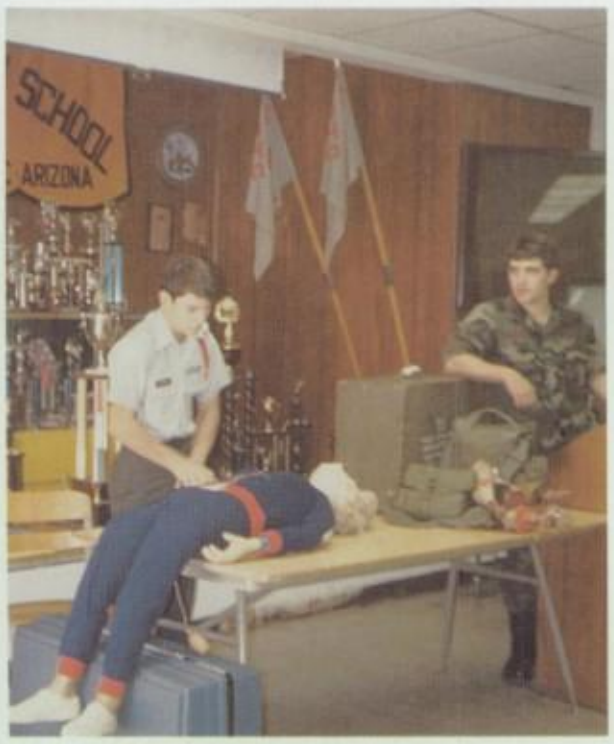
"Counting Calories" was one of the many things taught in Fashion Plus, as Liz Cubedo shows us.



For Sharon Collins, office typing was her choice, and she considered it her best.

Linda Smith adds the finishing touches to her dance to make it perfect.

Showing us that class time isn't always spent "under the hood", Mark Sellick and Dan Duncan study their auto mechanics textbooks.



JROTC students learn many helpful techniques; as this student demonstrates C.P.R. to the class.

Maryvale drama students, April Brandon, Chris Watson, Sylvia Diaz, Mike Calhoun, and Jodi Herning, have a lot of enthusiasm as they improvise this fight scene. Other things they do are mimes, study the history of drama, learn to project their voices, and have a lot of fun in the mean time!

ELECTIVES:
THE STUDENTS' CHOICE

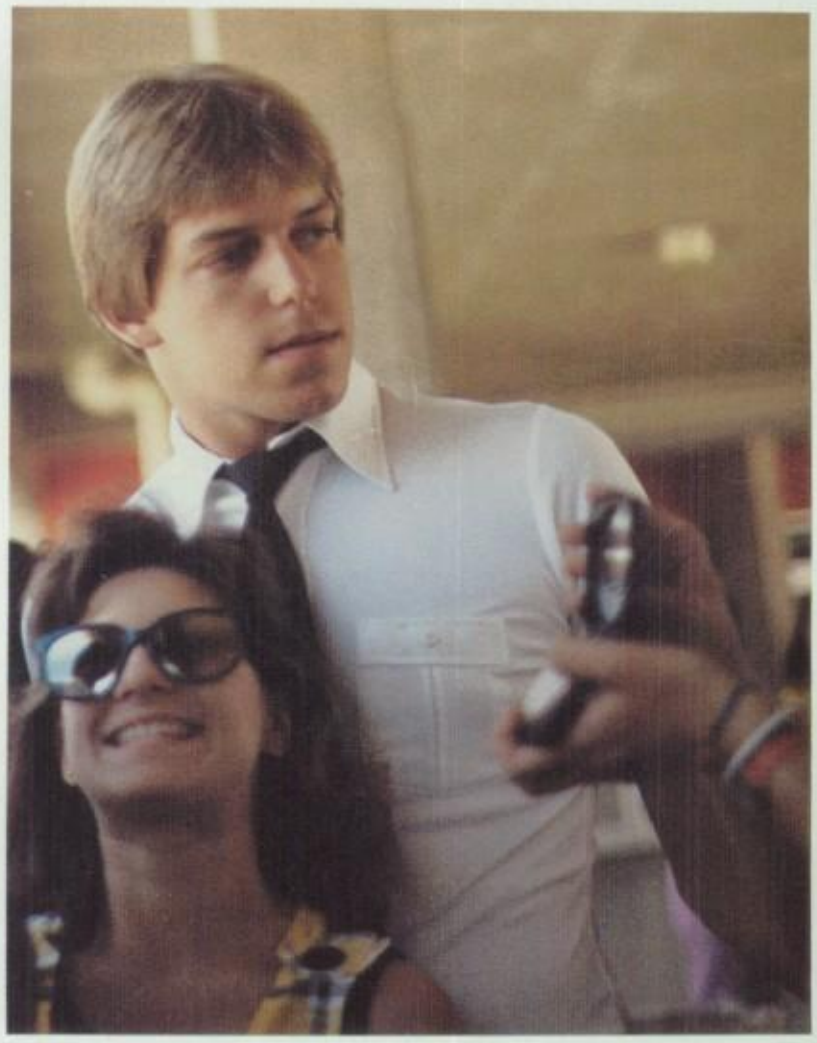
Offering a wide array of elective classes, Maryvale students had the opportunity to learn skills that would help them outside of the school. There were electives to satisfy almost everyone's interests. Whether it was classes for the creative students such as drama, dance, art, wood shop, or metal shop; classes for the students who wanted to learn more practical skills were typing, accounting, home economics, auto mechanics, or child development. Whatever elective class the students chose, they could be sure that they would have met a lot of new people and have great memories to last them a lifetime!

ON CAMPUS

Happenings on campus took place during all hours of the day. Most students had more fun walking to and from classes than being in the classes themselves. Seeing a best friend or a 'special' friend was highlight of the day. Lunchtime also proved to be a favorite; just sitting and talking with friends for a while seemed to make the day go faster when you were "On Campus".

Caught off guard, Beverly Chavez sits in front of the auditorium during 7th hour.

Senior, George Fimbres, says "Hi!" to a passing friend after school.



Obviously, Eric Kissel didn't think the joke was as funny as Carra Young did.

Elizabeth Gomez has a friendly conversation with a buddy before third hour.

Although injured with a bad knee, Bryan Obenour keeps his spirits up while walking to seventh hour.

"It's casual!" says Anthony Valencia as he waits for Gina Worrell.

Lunchtime activity "Do You Like Your Neighbor?" was a favorite as Kathy Watson and Richard Pebly join in.

An unsuspecting Charlotte Tang gets her picture taken while trying to make her way to class.

Ronnie Sayers with his California hairstyle brought a new trend to our campus. He has shown us that everyone should be him or herself and be proud of it! Others like him have proven this by coming out looking the way they want, not the way people want them to look!

''LOOKIN' GOOD''

More and more people were dressing in vogue! Mods and surfers were a few of the many popular looks on campus.

Some of the new fashions were long shorts, which brought back bright colors and unique designs, and also stir-up pants, long sweaters, and many varieties of skirts. Reeboks, a new British shoe, took over the now ''not so popular'' Nikes. Guys got into the action with their new style, loose pants that were tightly rolled up at the bottom.

This year was great for styles and trends!

Jimmy Snyder, Benny Espejo, and Robert Tillman looking ''The Fashion''.

Lisa White and Gary McKinley taking a walk down Fashion Lane.

Robin Morrell stands out with her colorful apparel.

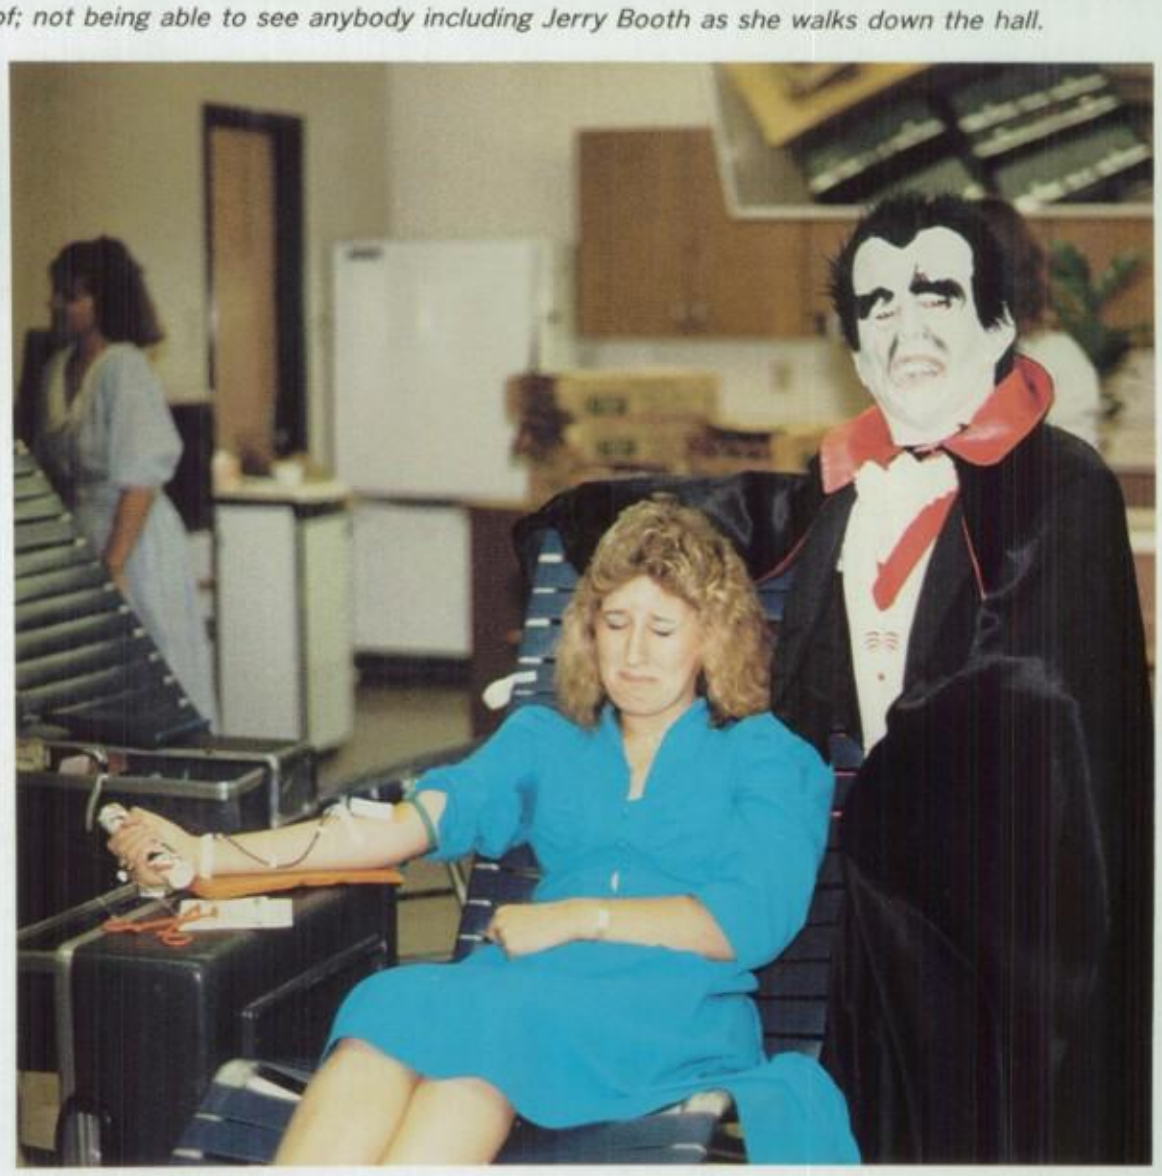
Lori Miller, lace and earrings with pizazz.

Tammy Diamond and Tina De La Garza, "Fashion with a Touch of Class!"

Kim Force appears to be aloof; not being able to see anybody including Jerry Booth as she walks down the hall.

"A PICTURE PAINTS A THOUSAND WORDS"

From the looks on these students' faces a whole story could be told. The roving Maryvale camera caught these two students off guard, their expressions make a person wonder what was going through their minds at that time.



While Sheila Johnson was giving blood at the HERO blood drive (watched by the HERO dracula—Gina Simpson), she gave her expression of the situation.

TAKING A HEAD START IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

Annette Ramos, leader of the freshman class, hoped to have lots of fun during the freshman year. She encouraged all her classmates to get involved in school events and to be a part of school spirit.

Among the many activities freshmen took part in were fundraisers, dances, the homecoming float, and dressing up in the school's colors, black and gold.

Ramos was assisted in her duties as president by Vice President Claudia Acosta, Secretary Kendra Avens, and Treasurer Kelci Avens.

LUNCH "HOUR?"

With the closed campus that has hit Maryvale, the lunch lines were almost unbearable. All students, with the exception of some seniors, crowded the cafeteria and snack bar to munch during lunch and the change of the schedule in the fourth week of school did not help at all. Students had to race to the lunch lines and were still eating, such as Alex Lopez, in line when the bell rang for the next class.

IN AND OUT OF THE CLASSROOM

Experiences gained outside the classroom were many. For example, the students in Mrs. Reed's freshman English class, such as Rita Quintero, Steve Montano, and Shane Grieves, learned how to fold, stack, count, and sort newspapers. This activity wasn't all that bad because they were also able to read the newspapers before anyone else.

Through experience, the class of '89 also learned how to stand in line patiently, to take criticism from upperclassmen, and to maneuver through crowded halls. All in all these "experiences" helped the 9th graders become a part of the scene at M.H.S.

THE MOST OBVIOUS FRESHMAN

The Most Obvious Freshmen was a contest for the ninth graders; however, not only the freshmen were able to vote. The turn out on this new contest was very good, not only did the upper classmen have fun voting but so did the people that won the contest. The two Most Obvious Freshman were; John Norton and Kelci Avens. When asked how she felt about winning, Kelci said, "I thought the contest was a funny idea." John was asked how he thought upcoming freshmen will react, he said, "Probably like I did, very embarrassed!!!"

TRANSPORTATION

Most freshmen cannot drive to school, and so they depend on family, friends, buses, skateboards, or their own legs. As shown by Freshman Jason Johnson, he has resourcefully used his bike and legs by necessity to get to school and home. Most freshmen do not like this way of getting to and fro, but it's better than walking. Walking is especially hard on rainy days because of traffic and water puddles. That is when the parents felt sorry and took them to school. Which made rainy days a favorite day for all.

SOPHOMORES

Michelle Herman, last year's freshman class president and now sophomore president, returned with new officers, Hubert Evangelista, vice president, Dahlia Henderson, secretary, Tina Marie Caballero, treasure, and Trevie Matthews and Denise Nelson as representatives. They all joined together to make a good year for the class of '88. Some of Herman's goals were to get the whole sophomore class involved in school activities and to have more class and school spirit. (Not shown is Trevie Matthews.)

"HAVING FUN YET?"

This is the question that sophomore Beth Gimplowitz asks. Sophomores can have fun whether in or out of school. Sophomores found time for fun at many places on the weekends. One popular place was a teen night club, "Tommy's". There they could enjoy pizza and soft drinks for a price of $5.00 admission. It was a place to meet new people, show off their fashions, dance, and have fun. Another pastime was hanging out at malls such as Westridge, Maryvale, and the largest of the malls, Metrocenter.

FOUND AND LOST

Caught between class and off guard, Sophomores Samantha Armstrong and Tina-Marie Caballero don't know which way to turn. The confusion is long lived as they manage to lose themselves in the crowded hallways. Confusion and chaos was the main reality in schoollife for many of the sophomores.

SOPHOMORES AT WORK

In the required classes it is plain to see that sophomores work as hard as anyone in an effort to succeed. Amongst the required courses are Health, Arizona History/Government and English. The tenth grade is a time for finishing required classes that will help us obtain our goals for the future, as well as eleventh grade.

LIFE AS A SOPHOMORE

"Well here we are again", was a common phrase among sophomores. The sophomore class came back to M.H.S. with more confidence, style, and pizzaz. Since they were no longer freshman they had a class to "rule" over but still hadn't reached upperclass status. Sophomores looked forward to driving, dating, and being more accepted on the social scene, along with added responsibilities of being a year older.

CONFUSING CLASSES

Classes can sometimes be perplexing, confusing and chaotic. How can you be a mover and a shaker when you don't know what's going on? Even though sophomores were a little more aware of how the system works, they still had moments of confusion.

TWO DOWN, TWO TO GO!

Sophomore Andy Napolean was ready to tackle anything that came his way. There was alot to tackle, from opposing players on the field to crowded hallways during passing time. Nothing seemed too difficult to overcome with the sophomores. Most soph's came in confident to make it through their second year at Maryvale, and were ready to take on two more.

A locker can do more than just hold books. It serves as a show off place where students can express their feelings to their friends by the groups, people, and things they enjoy.

JUNIORS

The junior class was encouraged by their officers to raise funds for their activities such as the prom, dances, homecoming float, and others. President Richard LaVeer, Vice-President Gina Lopez, Secretary Elissa Bailey, and Treasurer Lisa Ramsey put their heads together to make it a memorable year for their class. All together the juniors had a successful and pleasurable year due to the efforts of students and its officers.

M.H.S., FOREIGN EXPERIENCES!!!

Our junior class was enriched by the presence of four foreign exchange students. Aitziber Aquirre from Bilbao, Spain, Lisbeth Sandres from Trondheim, Norway, Yoshimasma Kondo from Tokyo, Japan (Not shown), and Ari Vaisanen from Kajaani, Finland joined the hallways of the many Maryvale students. They enjoyed their visit here, and we enjoyed their company.

WHAT HOMEWORK???

Junior Suzi Bytheway was often found staring into space, wondering why she didn't get her English homework done. She then realized why when she saw the guy that was in her English class!!

Other students were seen gazing into space in the morning hoping they would get help from a higher source because they failed to take their books home. With or without homework, students at Maryvale managed to make it through another year!!

FOOD FOR THOUGHT???

There are several definitions given for school food. Even though a large amount of comments made about school food are unpleasant, Junior Mary Mickle, Junior Jenny Reed, and Junior Margie Wirth seem to be enjoying their meal as they sit in the cafeteria. Since the school had a closed campus, more and more students are restricted to tasting the delicacies of school food or bringing their own.

JUNIORS PLAN AHEAD!!!

Juniors concentrated a little more and prepared for their senior year. Most juniors have a career or goal set in their mind and Javier Mesquita is working on his. Other decisions being made by juniors are whether to take a qualifying test for college, further their education, or get a job. From a junior poll, the yearbook staff found that 42% plan to go to college, 6% plan to go to trade school, 14% want to get a job, 10% intend to get married, and 24% plan other activities for their future.

MIND YOUR WORK!!!

English seems to be a difficult subject; however, Junior Frank Duran illustrates how to resolve the issue. It may seem boring to sit in a classroom for a total of 54 minutes listening to a teacher sermonize; but as many students say, you have to pay attention, study, and do your assignments to pass a class, or it is back for English 5-6 during the senior year.

JUNIORS ARE NO EXCEPTION!!!

Many lockers were seen embellished creatively with odds and ends by the imaginative geniuses of Maryvale. Decorating lockers was one of the activities that students enjoyed doing during school hours or on their free time. By the looks of things, Lori Miller is no exception to this tradition. She has gotten into the groove and fixed up an original locker.

GET IN SHAPE!!!

Students are taking the opportunity to get in shape, breathe fresh air, and chat with friends by walking down streets, alleys, canals, and parking lots as demonstrated by these juniors, Petra Tavernaro, Karen Russel, and Tina De La Garza. Although many students either drove, got a ride, or caught the city bus, walking proved to be the major means of transportation for the majority of students who attend Maryvale.

SEVENTH HOUR SNOOZE!!!

To some students, after sixth hour meant the end of the day. To others, it meant only one more hour of stress. Attending classes all day takes a lot of energy, is very wearisome, and gives a student a reason to rest his overworked brain and fatigued body. Shawn Martin demonstrates this by dozing through his seventh hour.

The senior class, led by president Tom Pettit, was involved in promoting and participating in various school projects. A continuing activity was fund raising; the money obtained to be used for a homecoming float, dances, the senior trip, and a gift to the school. Pettit was supported by fellow officers vice-president Jenny Tang, secretary Becki Swafford, treasurer Elizabeth Jimenez, representative Carey Sexton, representative Debbie Parton, and senior assistant Kathy Schuster.

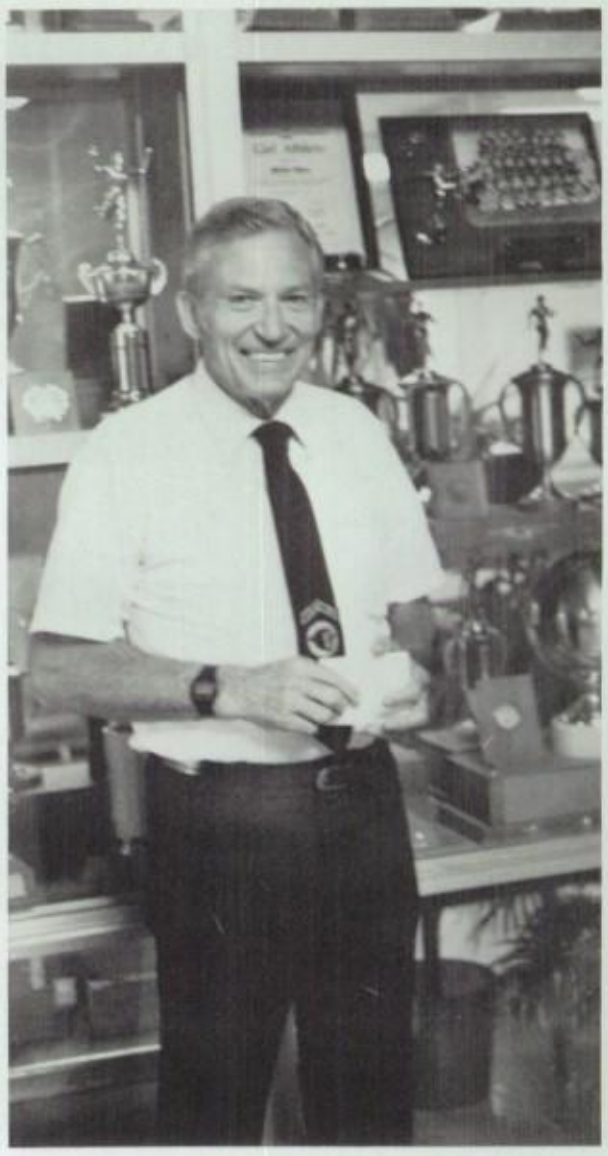
PRINCIPAL OR PRINCIPLE?

When we were in grade school we all remembered how to spell principal because our teachers reminded us "he's your pal". We all groaned and didn't quite believe it. Though with out principal, we can believe it. Mr. Wellesley C. Goodwin, in his fourth consecutive year at M.H.S. has tried and succeeded at making Maryvale number one.

Each year brings new changes which add to the already swelling pride of the black and gold. Closed campus, which most students thought would be a disaster, wasn't at all. It brought students closer together and this helped us to understand each other better. Shorter lunch hours were also a recent change, a bummer for most people, but it kept most out of the halls and into the classrooms. Mandatory pep assemblies were given back to eliminate the frustrations of most common teen-agers.



The school year wouldn't have run as smoothly as it did without the help of the assistant principals. With Mrs. Dorann Thoreen (top left) in charge of activities, Dr. Howard Shumate (below) in charge of attendance, and Mr. Martin Ulloa (bottom right) in charge of athletics, the year was a complete success. Mr. Wellesley Goodwin and Mrs. Dorann Thoreen look over the schedule for the first double-assembly of the year (bottom left).

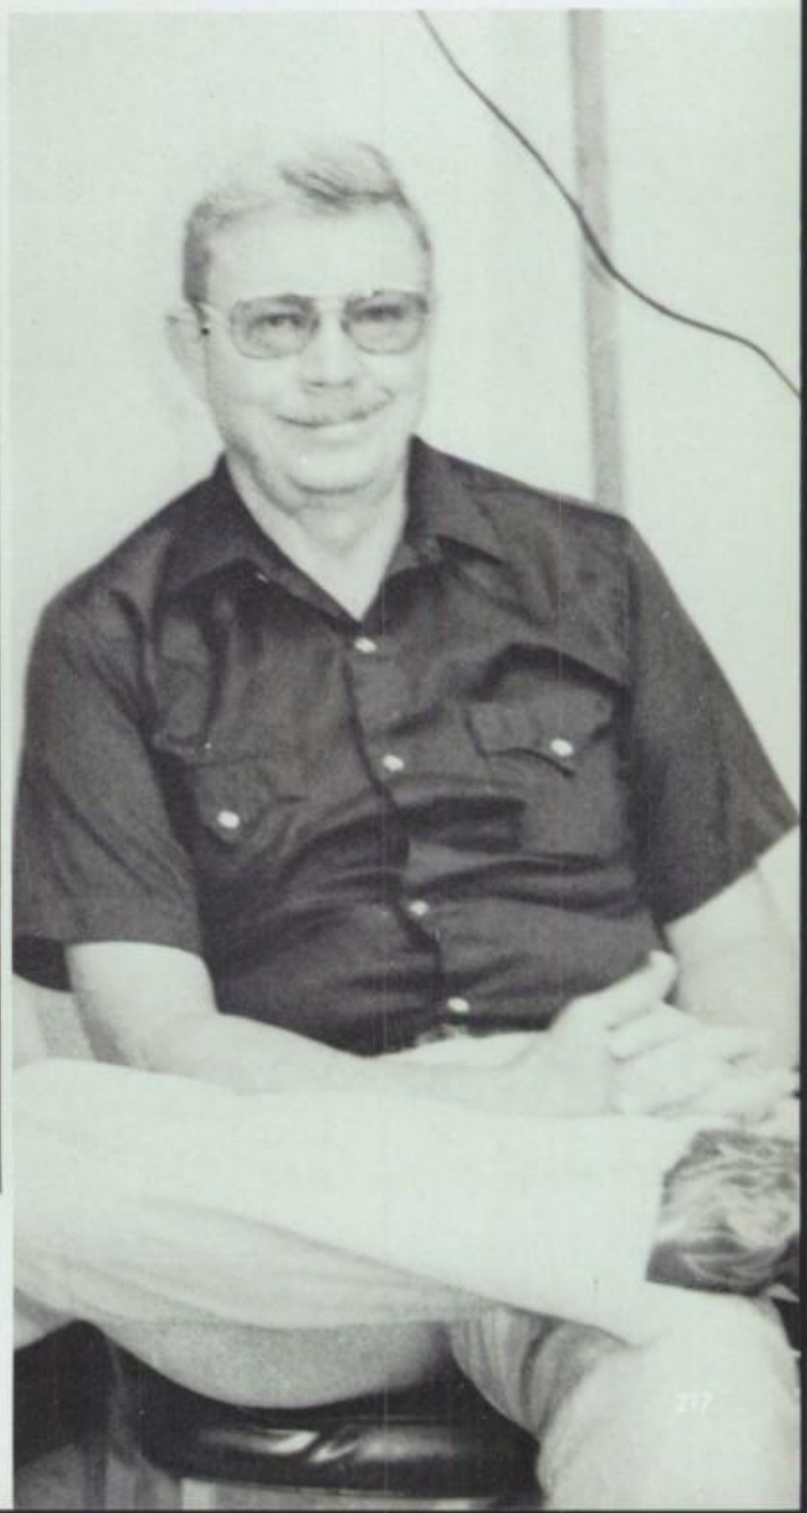
BUSINESS COURSES TRAINED STUDENTS FOR CLERICAL JOBS

Maryvale's business courses were designed to prepare students for entrance into the big prosperous world of business. Students had a wade variety of classes to choose from. Some of the offered courses were typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, general business, office typing, accounting, and business law. Qualified seniors in the business curriculum were allowed to take distributive education, or work experience, for which they received regular credit.

Mr. Visco, Mr. Jones, and Mrs. Thoreen enjoy an opportunity to socialize during the faculty christmas party.

Counselors Williamson and Johnson discuss some business about student schedules.



Mr. White looks amused by student antics.

SHOWCASE '86

Angela Totten:

Congratulations Honey!
We Love You.
Mom, Dad, Staci, and Tonya

Mrs. Maxwell,

You've been my favorite teacher all four years. I loved working with you. You've taught me so much, not only as a teacher, but as a good friend as well. There is no way I will forget everything you've done for me as well as for all the others. You're kind and caring and I only regret that we don't have another 4 years to work together. Thank you for making my four years wonderful!

Your faithful student,
Thespian, and friend,

Sylvia Diaz

Gina Vacanari,

This is our last year and we finally got thru it! We've known each other for a long time and we will stay friends forever. Kiss Jaqueline for me.

Maryhelen Hurtado,

You're a really neat friend who is wild and CRAZY! This will be our last year and I will always remember it best because of all the fun we had and will have (Like Maztlan).

Friends Forever to you both,

Toni Torrez

Don't forget the times we shared, 'cause in your mind you know you cared.

Don't forget the fun of it all, for now in time you will remember them all.

Don't forget always and forever that good old fillin' of just kickin' back and chillin'.

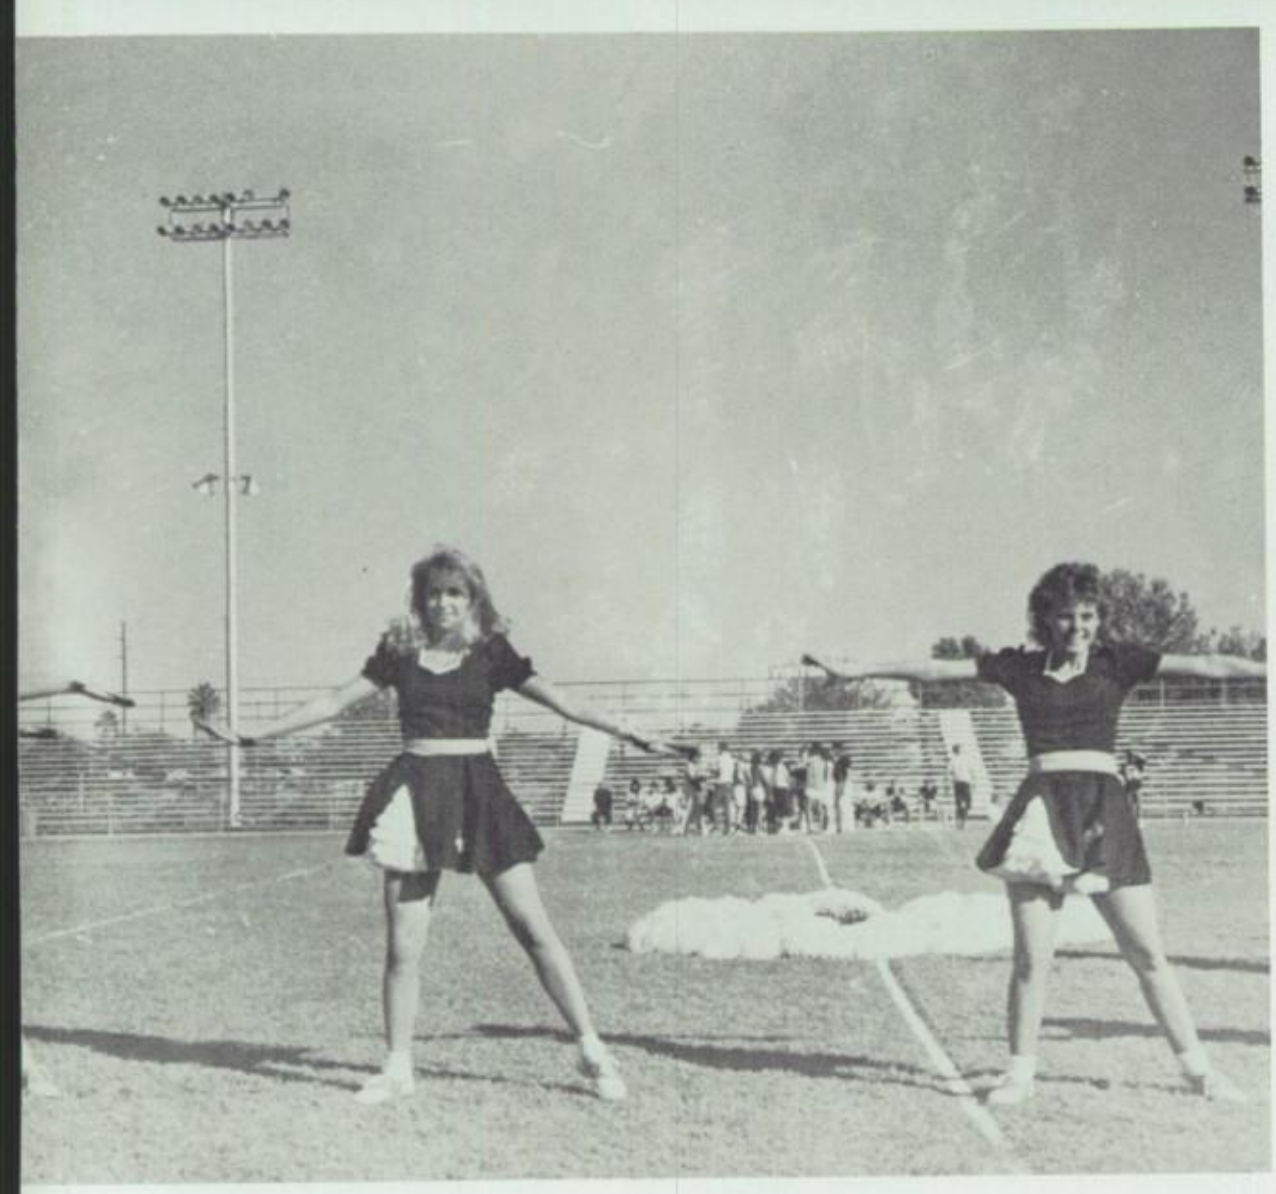
It's time to bid farewell and start anew!



After a rough four (for some five) years the seniors of Maryvale have finally made it! The class of '86 has become a part of history that will be remembered by all who made it happen. From the late night, last minute homework to the spirited pride for the school, these memories are a part of everyone. Maryvale has taught everyone many new experiences, and everyone has learned from their mistakes. Now is the time to face the future. Some will continue with further education, others will decide to tie the knot, and still others will try to make a living on their own. As everyone goes their own separate way to becoming independent, promises to keep in touch are broken but the hope of a class reunion is always there.

Being editor of the 1986 Panthorian had been a great experience for me. It wasn't easy at first, being ushered in to the position a quarter of the way thru the school year with only one year of training. Things were a bit rocky at first, but there were some very supportive people to help me make it to the end of the year. Now is my chance to say how I really feel about these people.

First and formost is M. B. Reed. If it hadn't been for you I may have never learned the meaning of the words "hard work". Thanks for your guidance and advisement. You've proved to me that I never want to be a yearbook advisor.

Next in line would have to be Donna Durham, the up and coming freshmen. Donna, I have you to thank for keeping the book from ceasing to exist. I also have your understanding mother to thank for seeing me home so many times. P.S. Remember the "Jumping Janitor"?

I was told not to mention a certain someone so I'll have to address this next line to an anonymous staffer. (You know who you are.) I really do appreciate all that you have done this year. Even though it seemed like I was trying to make your life miserable, I was just trying to train you for next year. I know you'll do great as long as you never quit being a spaz.

On to Lori Miller. Lori, you helped me where no one else dared to go, into my personal life. I thank you for saving me on New Year's Eve. You are the only one who has seen the "true" me. Thanks for everything.

Who can put up with two editors and passify them both with a dazzling smile? Anna DeLeon of course! Anna, even though you knew all my faults from the beginning, you stuck it out. Thanks for trying to keep me sane. I think the method where you confused me worked the best.

I must mention Joe Delgado at this time. Joe, I sure have missed you since you left, but I was happy to see you graduate. The darkroom just hasn't been the same without you. Thanks for being such a sweet "ex".

Anyone who wanted to get to know Tim McMonigal had to visit the darkroom. Tim I deem you brave for returning for a second year. Who knew you would end up with me as an editor? If it hadn't been for you the yearbook would never have gotten to be visual. Thanks for your many long slaved hours over the chemicals.

Julie Goddard was the part time, show-up when you weren't in the hospital staffer. Julie, when you were here, you were great and you kept everyone entertained. When you weren't here, we all wondered which one of life's mishaps caused you to be absent. Thanks for everything you managed to get done in between accidents.

I have to thank JoEllen Garcia for always being so cheery. JoEllen, you never let anything get you down. I guess that was because you never knew what was going on. (I wonder if Bill will read this?)

Darien Chavez, the innocent one. I must say thank you Darien for being so quiet around me and for getting your pages in without having to ask me 10,000 questions first. I hope you decide to stay on for another year, they're going to need you.

Renee Moffatt the secretary. Too bad you had to leave. You were almost able to stick it out. I hope you are happy in your new home.

For the ever-yelled at Chris Tafoya I have to say you really helped me keep my sanity. I knew you were tough enough to take it. I'm sorry if you took my abuse personally. Thanks for being such a great help in the darkroom.

Honorable mention goes to Brian Black the transfer student. Brian, I'm real sorry that you decided to leave, but your presence was appreciated (even if your jokes weren't). P.S. Remember N.A.S.A.?

Now I must thank Mary Mickle, editor in chief of Panther Tracks. Mary, I have you to thank for being my alternative ride home. You also make a great friend even though it seemed that we would forever be mortal enemies. But as fate would have it, we became a pretty good team. Thanks for putting up with my emotional swings. Take care next year when you'll have to recruit a whole new staff.

I'd like to thank Tony Stevens for letting me criticize everything he ever stood for. Tony, you know if I didn't like you then I wouldn't do it. I do believe you will become a great writer someday.

Peter Alejandro, thanks for all the time spent taking, developing, and printing pictures for me. You really were a great help in the darkroom.

Evelyn Clark, thanks for all the emotional support. It really helped me to get through the tough times.
